MOLLIE STONE'S SUPPORTS THE HERITAGE TURKEY PROJECT & SLOW FOOD USA

Mollie Stone's proudly offering Mary's Free-Range Heritage Turkeys this holiday season

MILL VALLEY, CA – Mollie Stone's is supporting the joint effort of Slow Food USA and The Heritage Turkey Project by offering Mary's Free Range Heritage Turkeys from Pitman Family Farms. The Pitmans own one of several farms nationwide raising these traditional turkey breeds - the Narragansett and Bourbon Red - to help preserve them from extinction and return them to the holiday tables of American families.

According to Pitman Family Farms, "the heritage turkey is based on the first breed of turkeys that existed in the United States. They can breed naturally, as well as run and fly! These extra activities result in larger thigh meat, and slightly less breast meat, than a typical turkey. All of these traits result in a superior taste that takes less time to cook than a regular turkey."

In addition to Mary's Heritage Turkeys, Mollie Stone's is offering Mary's Organic Free-Range Turkeys, brined turkeys, Mollie Stone's Free-Range Turkeys and Willie Bird Free-Range Turkeys.
